New Normal School at Radford Forced to Refuse Many Prospective Students. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Radford, Va., September 17.—With the registration at absolutely the highest number possible, the first session of the Radford Normal began to-day. The fears of some educators that the school would be short of pupils appears to have been absolutely unfounded, for President McConnell has, during the past few days, repeatedly refused applications of president in the past few days, repeatedly refused applications of president in the past few days, repeatedly refused applications of president in the past few days. fused applications of prospective stu-dents because of the lack of dormi-tory room. The administration building was erected with the object in view of accommodating 800 pupils, while the present dormitory secommodation provide for but 125, and the total registration to-day was about 135.

To-night, in the auditorium of the college, there was a gathering of the college, there was a gathering of the students, faculty and townspeople to participate in the formal opening of the college. The address of welcome was made by ex-Governor J. Hoge Tyler. Speeches were also made by tresident McConnell and other members of the faculty of the normal. The work on the artesian well of the formal, which will supply all water used by the school, is progressing rap-

IN The WAKE of the GAME M By Gur Malbert .

Dr. William R. Pressly will not manage the Richmond baseball club next season. This decision was reached yesterday when a conference between Pressly and W. B. Bradley, secretary of the local outfit, was held in Roanoke. Dr. Pressly reports to the Jefferson Hospital in the Magic City to-day, and when the doors close behind him they will shut out his with baseball career. He is through for good and all.

Secretary Bradley made this announcement in a long distance tele phone talk last night. "I made Pressly the best offer I could. We were anxious to have him, because we had great faith in his ability," said Mr Bradley, "but Buck felt that his profession had the first call on him. He has played his last game of baseball. Of that I am sure.

So endeth chapter No. 1 in the pursuit of a manager to succeed Steve as much in the air now as ever. One thing is certain: no member of the team will be elevated to a managerial berth. Some had thought that Bill Laval might be chosen; others hoped that Do Newton would land the job, but the directors are opposed to any such They are not unmindful of the ability of the two men mentioned, but they feel that their interests and the interests of the public will be better served by getting some one with more experience. With that end in view, the real work will star now. Letters will be written and visits will be made in an effort to bring to Richmond a good man: a man who Hoge can land the city a winner.

That the positive announcement from Pressly that he is through will be received reluctantly by the great body of fans is certain. There are two very good reasons for this. First, Pressly is personally popular, and would very good reasons for this. First, Pressly is personally popular, and would have been gladly accepted. Second, the fans are anxious to know who is to take charge of the team. They do not like this thing of waiting. They want to see the matter settled and settled quickly.

Three teams are now without managers: Richmond, Roanoke and Newport News. Some talk is heard that Joe Holland, once a member of the Tigers, but more recently in the Carolina League, will be offered the Tigers, but more recently in the Carolina League, will be offered the Tigers, but more recently in the Carolina League, will be offered the Tigers, but more recently in the Carolina League, will be offered to by the beneficiary, I will sell, at public auction, on the premises, on in Newport News, though advices from the shipbuilding centre are to the Tarleton, first baseman of the Builders, has been mentioned, Contrary. Tarleton, first baseman of the Builders, has been mentioned, and Joe Laughlin certainly has been considered, if, indeed, he has not been offered a contract. Concerning Richmond, all that is known has already been told.

fifth place. Whether he returns or not, he can point to his season in the Virginia League with considerable satisfaction.

Washington's second place hopes must have received an awful jar Washington's second place hopes must have received an awful jar yesterday, for while the Climbers were tossing off two to Detroit, Cleveland was walloping Boston. The opportunity was there to get closer to the runner-up station, but it was whifted away. Our Joe Boehling was rather cut up in one inning of the second affray, while young Gallia was badly treated in the first.

Our Joe Boehling was rather

Ty Cobb had rather a nifty day, and increased his lead over Joe Jack son by four points. Out of eight attempts with the mace, he molested the sphere successfully five times, one of which, a home run, won the last of the double-pronged show for his side. Joe Jackson gained over Speaker, getting two hits out of four tries, while in the same number of attempts the Texan landed not at all. Cobb's lead is now thirteen points.

The Yankees are really out of last place; out of it by one point, but out of it for the first time this season. Therefore, there is much rejoicing in Gotham. It happened while St. Louis was losing to the Athletics, and while the Yanks were dividing a bill with the White Sox.

Usual reports are being received from the gridiron camps. There is gloom everywhere. Harry Costello says that Georgetown hasn't a chance while Captain Carter and his coaches at the university are bewailing the absence of stars. Only the lesser colleges are happy. They apparently have enough material to work with, and they are not educated to expecting too much. Branch Bobock, at V. P. I., must build practically a new eleven, while Coach Poague at V. M. I., has several gaps to fill in, notably Red Moore's position.

In Richmond never before have there been so many elevens. They are springing up like mushrooms. Richmond College, the Medical College of Virginia, and the prep schools are all practicing, but in addition there are numbers of independent organizations, and, strange as it may seem, all apparently have good teams. The first game in which Richmond is directly interested takes place Saturday, when the Blues meet Hampden-

We subscribe to the idea that a very good series of games could be arranged between the two St. Louis clubs, assuming that both will land in second place. As Grantland Rice says, next to knowing the very best baseball team in the world, there is nothing like knowing the very worst, and in this particular instance there would be the double attraction to St. Louisans that St. Louis would win.
